Property Description

Tamarindo, Tamarindo, Tamarindo! Since the Costa Rica has opened up in November we are seeing a level of buying properties here in the area like never before. People have decided to live their dreams and COVID isn't going to stop them. I guess the world has woken up. This Lot It is 442m² or about 1/8th of an acre in a purely residential section of Tamarindo. It is quiet here. There is an amazing green zone behind the lot that serves for feeling the real nature that Guanacaste has to offer. The has a light slope down to the primary forest sized trees in the green zone. This is a fee-simple titled lot that you will be able to pass on to your heirs. The building footprint here is 70% and you can build two stories for a total of around. Although this property is in a section of Tamarindo where there are only residential homes the lot is a mixed use lot in the event that you want to run a small business here.
